

Bravo Game Studios: a new independent videogame Studio is born.

The first videogame company from the beautiful Andalusia introduced its team and talents in Barcelona during the Mobile World Congress.

Bravo Game Studios is a new independent videogame Developer based in Seville, Spain, with offices in London and Iasi (Romania), whose objective is to create genre-breaking as well as casual games to entertain anyone, by taking advantage of new opportunities offered by digital distribution.

BGS already Partners with International media, license owners manufacturers, and football clubs, to create a strong and diversified line-up of products.

Jose Miguel Lopez, CEO and founder of the company believes that" digital distribution gives the opportunity to develop a new Business model that will ensure profitability in the long run"

BGS has secured VC funding and counts with the support of its two main shareholders: the two leading spanish mobile solution providers, Genera Interactive and Mobivery.

BGS is a collective of 30 professionals and passionate gamers planning to aggressively expand to more than 100 professionals during 2010.

BGS is currently working on its first games, which will be announced very soon.

More information: www.bravogamestudios.com

About Genera Interactive:

Genera Interactive is a mobile entertainment company specializing in multiplatform application development and innovative concepts for mobile marketing purposes.

Since 2002 the company has been providing mobile solutions for global operator groups, brand partners and leading media companies.

With their headquarters in Spain, the company operates across five continents and has offices in key territories (UK, Mexico, and Romania)

Genera Interactive counts on its satisfied customers worldwide, leading brands and media companies such as Real Madrid, Disney, WWE, CNN, MTV España

About Mobivery:

MOBIVERY (Mobility Everywhere) is a fast growing and leading Spanish start up focused on designing, and developing mobile applications for corporate customers, in Spain and abroad. Mobivery is a certified development partner in all major mobile platforms: iPhone, Palm Pre, Google Android.